01:30:50 Erica Rau: Wow. I don't know what to say

01:31:24 Judy Barrat: Mr. Rosensaft, my daughter, Randi Barrat speaks so highly of you and now I understand why. It was lovely to see and hear the man she so admires.

01:31:28 Lana Schreier: What an incredibly moving story and Menachem is a wonderful speaker

01:31:35 Erica Rau: Very powerful... very inspiring. Thank you for trusting us with your story and your family's.

01:31:55 Lana Schreier: My Oma, Ilse Loeb, spoke so highly of Menachem and I can definitely see why 01:33:11 sara winkowski: Thank you Menachem for opening our eyes for some many things we had never really thought about. Thank you for this brilliant exposition of facts.

01:33:13 Judy Ronay: Sending love & gratitude to Yael & Menachem from Judy Ronay, Zachor Antisemitism Initiative Orange Co. NY. And child of Survivors of the Shoah. I have added the painful challenge of the massacre of October 7 2023 in Israel to heartbreaking meaninglessness

01:34:13 Erica Rau: As a woman of faith, I have found myself writing poetry akin to psalms to process my (incomparable) trauma. Hearing YOUR poetry is so powerful – I have two questions:

01:35:03 Erica Rau: 1. Was it helpful to you to write this? Reflecting on and confronting those feelings... let alone God?

01:37:00 Tymber Wolf: Amazing. thank you for sharing with us. I am a writer, and have written about intergenerational Jewish trauma. I am so intrigued by Menachem's craft in something as succinct as a poem. how beautiful.

01:37:06 Erica Rau: 2. To the importance of time: what can my generation (millennial) and younger generations do to thoroughly, appropriately, accurately, respectfully remembering and preserving your stories?

01:40:00 Judy Barrat: Thank you so much for your kind words.

01:41:44 Galina Itskovich: Thank you so much for for sharing the story and your perspective. If we don't process it, the history will repeat itself over and over.

01:43:30 Louis-Henri Mars: Thank you for sharing your story Menachem. It has moved me deeply. As a follower of Christ I consider myself a spiritual cousin of the jews. But I am also a descendant of kidnapped africans sent into slavery in the Caribbean. For me our trauma parallels the trauma of the jews . Remembering is essential but how do you heal from this kind of trauma is my personal quest. Is there healing possible and what does it look like ?

01:43:48 Lana Schreier: I am so honored to have listened to Menchem and am so honored to see Yael moderate this webinar  thank you for doing this!

01:47:43 Jacqueline Murekatete: Thank you so much for sharing and I look forward to reading the book. I myself have struggled with the same questions as a survivor of the 1994 Genocide in Rwanda and I know these are questions that many survivors struggle with. I am not sure we will ever have satisfying answers while on this earth but we must never stop asking these questions as the asking is perhaps as important as the answers. I am not able to get on camera and thank you where I am now but I want to at least thank you here. Blessings to you always.

01:50:30 Judy Barrat: will the recording of this beautiful presentation be available?

01:51:20 Dr. Yael Danieli: The recording will be available in two hours to all registrants

01:51:50 Erica Rau: Thank you

01:51:52 Judy Barrat: wonderful, thank you.

01:52:17 Judy Schreier: This is Judy Schreier, Lana's Mom. Menachem, WOW you are an incredible speaker and storyteller. You are also a great writer, too. I am honored to have been invited to this discussion. So many questions you raised are ones that I, a child of two survivors, have asked for as long as I learned of the horrors. I am not sure if there are really any real answers, especially with what has happened in recent timelines.

01:55:48 John L. German: From the first word to the last, shattering and necessary -- we owe Menachem Rosensaft a profound debt of gratitude, and a sacred duty to engage, not to turn away -- "The Child" is our ultimate and eternal responsibility, and ultimate and eternal opportunity

02:02:08 Erica Rau: My heart goes out to the survivors in this discussion

02:07:53 Michael Brenner: To Menaham my Friend and Brother in Heart, I still cry when I read rom POEMS BERGEN_BELSEN, I Cr as I listen to you and now you write more tears to my Eyes.

02:10:01 Louis-Henri Mars: I am actually form Haiti and I would love to participate int he Haiti Working group !

02:10:13 Ronnie Dunetz: Thank-you Menachem for all you have been doing for years. As a second generation myself, and as one who has done much work around documentation and reflection on the shoah, including m own father and aunt's stories. I am troubled by what awaits us once the last survivor will not be among us. As we move farther and farther away from the Holocaust, growing distortion, "loss of memory and trivialization...what does it mean exactly to remember the Holocaust? Do we really know WHAT we want to be remembered as the years pass and the world's memory becomes blurred and even manipulated?

02:14:58 almasa salihovic: Dear Menachem, thank you so much! For all that you have been doing, for educating and helping the rest of us who deal with the memorialisation and speaking, reminding people and emphasizing the importance of remembering the Holocaust victims and victims of other genocides. Thank you so much. I am honored to have met you and to have had the opportunity to have you at the Srebrenica Memorial Center. Honored to be able to call you not just someone to look up to but as a friend. Warm regards from the bottom of my heart from Almasa Salihovic from Srebrenica Memorial.

02:22:40 John L. German: Will the link to the video recording include the transcript? I want the quotes I publish to my worldwide email distribution lists, to be faithful to what was actually said -- thanks for your help on this, and looking forward -- german63@hotmail.com

02:23:11 Michael Brenner: Menacham! When will I see you at PAS? Sign my book and a Le-Chaim to you?

02:29:17 Liane Süßmuth-Wemhöner: Herzlichen Dank für alles. Dank an Menachem Rosensaft, Dr. Yael Danieli and all persons here for their I must leave now.

02:30:23 Liane Süßmuth-Wemhöner: Sorry.. My text was cut, before i was ready. Good bye.

02:32:41 ICMGLT ZOOM: <https://icmglt.org/webinars/>

02:33:31 Judy Ronay: There is a reunion of descendants of Pening a subcamp of Buchenwald in Buda[est this spring. I am planning to go in memory of my Mom & to complete a book I've been working on 02:34:47 Erica Rau: How can younger generations meaningfully prepare themselves to receive Holocaust testimonies? This question feels deeply personal to me. I studied International Studies with a concentration in Genocide, yet I am constantly reminded that academic knowledge alone is not enough. Bearing witness to these stories is a responsibility. What are the first steps younger generations must take to honor survivors' experiences with respect, humility, and a genuine commitment to remembrance?

02:39:10 Erica Rau: sorry I asked too many !!! hahaha\

02:40:53 Erica Rau: An Erica webinar

02:41:06 Erica Rau: Thank you!!! :) Blessings to all of you, Thank you for your time

02:41:08 Michael Brenner: Last word...My former in-laws were transferred to man camps. My father in law talke of if somenon had a potato to share.

02:41:08
02:41:37
well!

Judy Ronay: Thank you & kol hakavod!
almasa salihovic: thank you! God bless you as
